

KRESA CHALLENGE

Exciting news! Former Northrop Grumman CEO Kent Kresa has made a Challenge Pledge of $100,000 to support the museum’s new five-year growth and expansion plan.

Kent Kresa, former CEO of Northrop Grumman, with WMOF President Mike Ciminera after a Celebrity Lecture.

DONATE

Northrop Grumman YF-23 “Black Widow” Stealth Fighter prototype on display at WMOF.

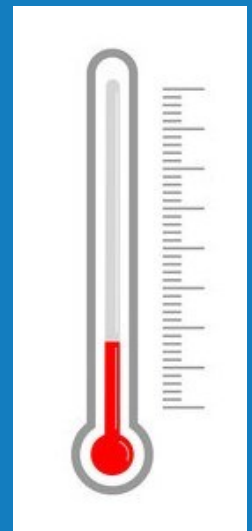

Mr. Kresa’s pledge is a 1:1 match. To receive the grant at the end of 2024, WMOF must raise $100,000 from new and current donors.

Funds raised will directly support the museum’s expanding STEM programs for students, classrooms, and interns, as well as other museum growth needs.

HOW TO SUPPORT THE KRESA CHALLENGE:

- Become a new member. New members count 100%
- Increase your membership to the next level
- Donate directly to the Kresa Challenge Fund
- Contact us for more giving opportunities!

Your support for the Kresa Challenge helps us build the museum’s capacity, continue bringing more STEM programs to students, and better serve our community.

➔ Questions or more information? Email Advancement@WMOF.com, or phone us at (310) 326-9544.

Children enjoy the Kids Aerospace Discovery Zone

3rd grade Class attends “Kids Love Aviation Science”